

Why is Women's History Month Important?

By walking history's pathways, we learn to step forward with confidence. The legacy of how others shaped society sparks our own longings to contribute. Everyone needs role models — footsteps enough like our own to inspire us.

History must tell the whole story. For girls, knowing women's achievements expands their sense of what is possible. For all of us, knowledge of women's strengths and contributions builds respect and nourishes self esteem — crucial to all children and adults now, and in the years to come.

Educators are willing, often eager, to introduce women's history. But they lack materials and support.

Published by St James's House – an imprint of the SJH Group – and in association with the 2020 Women's Vote Centennial Initiative (WVCI). Historians and activists, Nancy Tate, Jill Zahniser, and Robert P.J. Cooney, Jr. worked closely with St. James House in the development of this beautiful, legacy, coffee table book.

The book will be launched through a digital launch event on March 31, 2021, at 11am PST/2pm EST/ 7pm GMT.

Registration deadline is March 26, 2021.

Introducing Women's History to Kids

We draw strength and inspiration from those who came before us – and those remarkable women working among us today. They are part of our story, and a truly balanced and inclusive history recognizes how important women have always been in American society.

To help, we carry a variety of excellent books about important women from history to introduce them to the children in your life.
